

Lesson 9.1

How Children Learn in the First Year

Organize your notes according to regions of the brain and their functions. If a piece of information does not relate to a particular region of the brain, then create a category for it beneath the brain and continue your notes there.

